Shooting Affair in Chatham Street.
POLITICIAN AHOT IN A SHOWHOOM—THE PERFERENCE SURRENDERS HIMSELF—SELF-DEFENCE HISPLEA, EIC., ETC.

Chatham street yesforday morning, and occasioned Fourth and Sexth wards. The facts of the case seem to involved in commiderable confusion, as the friends of actors on both sides give entirely contradictory state-ts relative to the occurrence and the causes which in the City Inspector's or Street Commissioner's office. The sh wroom proprietor, who inflicted the wounds, goes by the name of Valentine; but it is said his real name is John Geary.

According to Purcell's friends, Valentine was guilty of some tricks at card maying, and was accused of cheating yesterday morning by Furcell. It is aliced that Valentine thereuper-called his accuser grossly insulting names, and that a fight ensued, in the course of which Valentine drew'n pistol and shy Parcell twice.

The story on the other side is quite different, and in paticate both parties we give both versions. The statement of Mr. O'Brien, partner of Valentine, may be briefly summed up as follows.

About eight months ago Messrs, Valentine & O'Brien of and a follows.

About eight months ago Messrs, Valentine & O'Brien of ened a show at 145 Chatham street (Old National Steate), where they have since had on exhibition views of different battles fought during the present rebellion, the five legged sheep, wild woman of Sumara, and a varioty of other curlosities. Some time since, according to the statement of Mr. O'Brien, one of the showmen. Purcell called there and asked for employment. Being told that they had nothing for him do, Parcell dampaded that the firm should find him a place at two dollars per day, at the same time threatening, if his wish was disoboged, to have the exhibition broken up. The determination evinced by Parcell had the secured effect, and he was employed as "pace keerer" to the showmens. A few days since Purcell, it is always demanded an increase of wages, and ronewed his commention, make a descent on their cabinet of cariosities, and effectually close the concern. Purcell's place was forthwith declared wacant, and, as he left, Valentine & O'Brien did not like the was an upplement visitation. Accordingly, about ten o'clock pesterday morning, Purcell, as is further alseged, struck an upplement visitation. Accordingly, about ten o'clock pesterday morning, Purcell, it is alleged, rushed into the show and offic
